

5 November 2020

To whom it may concern

RE: Covid-19 Garages and automotive supply chain to remain open to support essential work and MOTs, people in key sectors and key workers

Whilst the government, under new restrictions effective 5 November, is requiring people to stay at home, parts distributors and suppliers are able to stay open in order to supply parts to workshops who are continuing to support logistics providers, local councils, blue light services and key workers.

This person is critical to ensuring the necessary parts, tools and information remain available to them so that we can keep these key groups on the move. In line with guidance from government, deliveries are also encouraged to minimise contact.

Your support is appreciated.

Independent Automotive Aftermarket Federation (IAAF)